Left column begins here. Spacing your study over several days works better than cramming it into one evening. Close the book, write down what you remember, and check what you missed.

Right column begins here. Spacing your study over several days works better than cramming it into one evening. Close the book, write down what you remember, and check what you missed.